

Eric Fraysse
President, Global Aftermarket and President, Brazil
Garrett - Advancing Motion

Eric Fraysse is president of global aftermarket and president, Brazil for Garrett - Advancing Motion, a global leader in turbocharging technologies, electric products and automotive software. He is responsible for business in the independent aftermarket (IAM) and original equipment service (OES) channels, its Friction Materials business (FMP), and the Brazil region.

Fraysse leads Garrett's efforts to deploy its differentiated product strategy and drive breakthrough growth initiatives in the aftermarket. These efforts focus on strengthening distribution channel management, launching new products and expanding business around the world into new segments. In addition, he ensures the global sharing of best practices driving sales growth and marketing excellence.

Prior to the Garrett spinoff from Honeywell, Fraysse joined Honeywell Transportation Systems in May 2009 as the strategy director for sourcing. He was named vice president and chief procurement officer and a member of the Transportation Systems Leadership Team in 2012.

Before joining Honeywell, Fraysse spent nearly 15 years with Renault Nissan in Slovenia, France, Brazil and Romania, ultimately serving as the purchasing director of Dacia, Renault's fastest-growing brand. He also held leadership positions in Covisint, an internet marketplace created by global North American and European original equipment manufacturers, specializing in delivering sourcing and collaboration services for the automotive industry.

Fraysse holds a master's degree from Lyon Business School with a major in management of technology and is a certified Six Sigma Green Belt. He is based in Rolle, Switzerland, and reports to Garrett President and CEO Olivier Rabiller.